

FORCED TO SUSPEND SUBMARINE RESCUE WORK

THREE MAJOR
AIR EFFORTS ARE BUNGLED

—COL. WILLIAM MITCHELL

Completes Testimony
Before Air Board With That Declaration

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—“The bungling” of three major aeronautical efforts—the disastrous flight of the Shenandoah; the interrupted flight of the PN-9-1 to Hawaii and the unsuccessful Arctic trip of the Navy-MacMillan planes—was charged against the navy today by Col. William Mitchell, center of the aircraft row.

In sending the Shenandoah to the middle west, Col. Mitchell asserted the navy not only violated the law leaving land operations to the army, but it dispatched the big dirigible on a “political” and “propaganda mission.”

Notwithstanding the statements of Commander John Rodgers, that nothing was left undone to insure the success of the PN-9-1, Col. Mitchell said the preparations apparently were made by “bungling amateurs.”

Commander Rodgers at the time Col. Mitchell made his charge, was holding himself in readiness to appear before the committee.

Repeat “Muzzling” Charge
Planes built for the tropics were sent with the MacMillan expedition, Col. Mitchell said, and the PN-9-1, started for Honolulu when it was known that more than one refueling would be necessary.

Before concluding his six hours of testimony, which began yesterday, Col. Mitchell reiterated the charge that junior army and navy officers were muzzled by superiors to prevent them from “telling the truth” to investigating bodies and asserted he had made criticism for which he faces court martial “not against individuals, but a military system that had practically ignored aviation and left the nation helpless to defend itself in the air.”

There was no direct reference to the charges made by Col. Mitchell recently of conduct almost treasonable and criminal on the part of those charged with administering the air defenses, his testimony on the Shenandoah flight being devoted more to the legal aspects of the case from a service standpoint. Commander Rodgers is expected to be heard tomorrow.

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Responsibility for the Shenandoah disaster and failure of the navy airplane PN-9-1 to reach Hawaii was placed directly on the heads of the navy department today by Col. William Mitchell in testimony before the president's aircraft board.

The sending of the big dirigible into the middle west was “in direct violation of law,” he asserted, and arrangements made for the PN-9-1 flight looked like the work of “bungling amateurs.”

The former assistant chief of the air service severely criticized the navy for its inactivity in arranging equipment for the navy contingent accompanying the MacMillan Arctic expedition, declaring “flagrant” mistakes made in preparation for the three aeronautical events made it impossible for airmen to remain silent.

Claims Violation of Law
By sending the Shenandoah to the middle west he insisted the navy violated the law because in time of peace land activities belong to the army.

The big dirigible, he charged, was not equipped with parachutes.

“This is like sending a ship to sea without life boats,” he added.

Engineering
showed the PN-9-1 could not possibly have reached Honolulu without refueling en route, and that the planes to the Arctic were designed and built for service in the tropics and along the Atlantic coast.

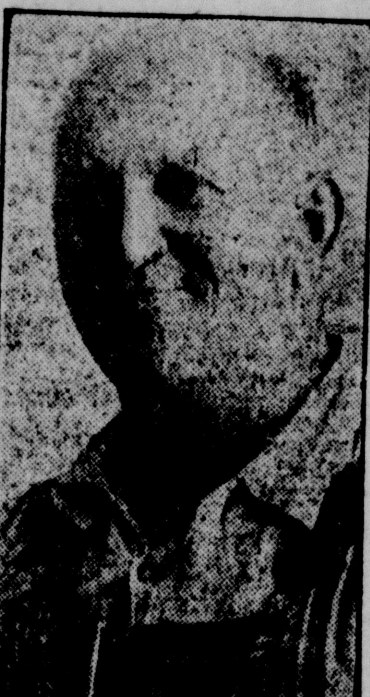

“Yet these planes,” he added, “were sent to the Arctic regions where officers in charge of planning the expedition expected them to give satisfactory service.”

Col. Mitchell declared an attempt to get obsolete vessels from the navy for a target practice, brought a reply from Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson that there were “no obsolete vessels.”

Quoted Secretary Weeks
He read from the testimony given by Secretary Weeks before a House committee, in which he said that for the navy to get more money for aviation than the army would be unjust.

“The work of army bombing planes,” he said, “has amounted to nothing this summer. The bombing group has been used to tow targets. The commander is now in Maine shooting moose and trying to recover after such procedure.”

Regarding the aircraft tests on the battleship Washington, Col. Mitchell declared that testimony was given to the house aircraft committee that the

Veteran Host of Grand Hotel
Retires for Rest

CHARLES SHEFFIELD

“Sheff,” the genial host at the Sheffield Hotel in Grand Detour, has retired. He and Mrs. Sheffield, when they sold the hotel recently, had nearly completed twenty-five years of service to the public in the old tavern in Grand Detour which was famous throughout northern Illinois—made famous chiefly by Mrs. Sheffield's delicious cooking and “Sheff's” big smile, his overalls and his large safety pin.

A quarter of a century of hard work has brought to them a well earned rest and they are remodeling a very pretty stone cottage which is being fitted up with every modern convenience, on the banks of Rock River in the quaint old village of Grand Detour. “Sheff” and Mrs. “Sheff” will be missed around the old hotel with its home-like atmosphere and its tables groaning with loads of good food, although the new management will carry on the fine reputation of the old place.

Mr. Sheffield's father started the hotel sixty years ago. In 1862, in Grand Detour, “Sheff” first saw the light of day and he has lived in the village and been one of its most prominent citizens all his life. Twenty-five years ago he and Mrs. Sheffield took over the management of the hotel.

Under the management of the Sheffield's the hotel has become famous and has helped to make Grand Detour famous, not only locally, but all over the country. Guests from every state in the union have enjoyed the hospitality of the place and we have no doubt that were you in Bangor, Maine; Cohasset, Minnesota; Frisco in the west or Miami in the south you could find someone who had happy memories of “Sheff's” broad smile and friendly good-nature, or the fried fish and chicken dinners in Grand.

MODERN WOODMEN TO MEET

The Modern Woodmen of America, Camp No. 56, will meet in Union Hall Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The final arrangements will be made for the showing of moving pictures to be given Wednesday evening, Oct. 7 in the Union hall, to which the public is invited. No admission will be charged to see the pictures which will be instructive and interesting.

HEINEN, FORMER
ZEPPELIN PILOT,
BEFORE INQUIRY

Thinks Reduction Shenandoah's Valves Was Cause of Tragedy

BULLETIN

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The disaster to the airship Shenandoah was “entirely and very easily avoidable,” Captain Anton Heinen, former German Zeppelin pilot declared today before the naval court of inquiry here.

“Does your criticism apply to the handling of the ship on that occasion?” asked Rear Admiral Jones, president of the court.

“It does,” Heinen said.

“Whom do you hold responsible?” Heinen paused.

“I hold responsible the man in charge of the ship during the flight,” he finally said.

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Appearing as one of the star witnesses in the Shenandoah disaster investigation, Captain Anton Heinen, former Zeppelin pilot, was subjected to sharp examination today before the naval court of inquiry here.

The questioning was directed primarily to statements Heinen made after the wreck of the aircraft in which he was quoted as saying the death of the 14 officers and men of the ship was “pure murder.”

There also was criticism of the reduction of the helium gas escape valves from 18 to 5, Heinen claiming that the cells expanded and stressed the structure, thus contributing to the disaster.

Denies “Murder” Statement.
After Heinen had detailed his long experience as a Zeppelin pilot and in this country with the Shenandoah, he denied that he had said that the wreck of the Shenandoah was “pure murder.”

“What structural charges do you think were responsible for the accident?” asked Judge Advocate Foley.

“The reduction of the 18 safety valves to eight,” Heinen said.

Heinen denied that he had said 18 safety valves were not enough for the Shenandoah. He said what he had said was that on account of the greater density of helium than hydrogen, more valves might have been put in. He added that he regarded the 13 valves originally put in as sufficient.

Heavy Bombardment in Morocco Monday Night
Tangier, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Tetuan, capital of Spanish Morocco was heavily shelled by the rebel Moroccan, using 75 millimeter guns on Monday night, according to advices reaching here today.

The bombardment was directed against the city from the hills to the southeast. The Spaniards admit casualties of seven killed or wounded. Some animals also were hit and buildings were damaged.

The Spanish artillery replied by shelling over the town from the hills to the north of Tetuan. Eventually the rebels guns were silenced. It is not known what casualties were inflicted on the Rifians.

The rebel bombardment is believed to be a counter move to the Spanish advance from the Alhucemas Bay region on Ajdir, Abd-el-Krim's capital, which is within four miles of the Spanish lines. The Rifians apparently have taken advantage of the reduced garrison defending Tetuan.

In consequence of the new Rifian threat to the Spanish capital all the Spanish troops on leave in Tangier have been recalled to duty.

Jensen Given Contract to Paint Dixon Bridge

N. H. Jensen of this city was awarded the contract for cleaning and painting of the Galena avenue bridge at the meeting of the city council last evening. Three bids were submitted as follows: A. L. Sellers, $2,485; F. W. Geer, $2,480 and N. H. Jensen, $1,650.

The application of Ed Lambert to erect an electric sign at his place of business on North Galena avenue was referred to the commissioner of public health and safety with power to act.

Application of the Roxana Petroleum company for a permit to erect a filling station near their present storage plant on North Galena avenue was tabled until next Tuesday evening to permit members of the council to conduct an investigation.

Motorized Circus Was in Dixon This Morning

The Sells-Steinberg circus, travelling cross country in 25 motor trucks, passed through Dixon this morning on its way to Amboy where it will show some of the tractors which pulled the animal wagons were delayed here for about an hour while repairs were being made.

Paw Paw Man Furnishes Bond: Released Today

James Ketchum of Paw Paw furnished bonds in the sum of $500 this morning and was released from the county jail where he was held on a charge of false pretense.

Restoring Husband's Memory

One of the strangest cases of amnesia on record is that of Larry O'Keefe, who disappeared from his home at Austin, Minn., May 4, wandered all over this country and Mexico for four months and finally was found at Salvation Army Headquarters, New Orleans, after being rescued from a burning British tank back home, but he is gradually recalling his past. Early this year O'Keefe said he had inherited an Irish baronetcy, but this story proved to be a hoax. He is shown here with his wife.

Tampering With Cars of Bankers Must Stop

Traffic on First street, just west of Galena avenue was delayed somewhat late Tuesday afternoon when the automobile of a well known banker—Wilson Dysart—refused to start. Mr. Dysart jumped into his car in a great hurry at the completion of his day's work, turned the switch, stepped on the starter, pushed in the clutch and waited—but nothing happened. He grabbed, pulled and poked at everything on the instrument board, but the old flivver refused to budge. Wilson jumped out, presumably to push the pesky thing around the corner to see if it would run down the hill. And then he found that some friend had jacked up the right rear wheel, which, in that condition would do nothing, but spin when the power was applied. This tampering with bankers' cars has got to stop, Mr. Dysart declares.

PEORIA COUNTY OFFICIALS 'WET' ATTORNEY SAYS

Makes Statement Concerning Indictment of Dry Agents

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Characterizing Peoria county officers as “wet” in sentiment, United States Attorney Thomas Williamson today asserted that prohibition officers in that territory “had more than the ordinary situation to face.”

He said this in a statement today in connection with the indictment of three federal prohibition agents by the Peoria county court. He said the case would be transferred to federal jurisdiction on writs of habeas corpus cum causa.

“The general sentiment of those in authority,” Attorney Williamson insisted, “and who were elected to office by the people of Peoria county, indicates they come under a general class designated as ‘wet.’”

“Judge Green in a measure reflects the sentiment of persons coming under this designation.

“There is no desire on the part of this office or of any one connected with this court to reflect on the state judiciary. But violations of the national prohibition act in Peoria were so flagrant and these violations seem to have encouragement from some source, that prohibition agents confronted with the situation in Peoria had more than the ordinary situation to face.”

Coal Logical Source for Substitute for Gasoline

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—America would now be working on a substitute for gasoline, and coal is the logical source for such a substitute, Dr. A. C. Feldner, chief chemist of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, told the chemists attending the American Chemical Society symposium today.

“The gradual failure of the yearly output of petroleum gasoline to meet the increasing needs of the automotive industries,” he said, “with the consequent rise in prices of motor fuel, should stimulate the carbonization of coal by both high and low processes.”

$15,000,000 Suit is Filed in Boston Court

Boston, Mass., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Suit for $15,000,000 against the Aluminum Company of America, of which Secretary Mellon is one of the principal owners and its director, was filed in the federal court here today by George B. Haskell of Springfield, president of the Mauch Machine Tool Co. He charges conspiracy.

AGREEMENT ON FRENCH DEBT IS NEARER, BELIEF

Negotiations Moving More Rapidly In Big Discussion

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The debt negotiations between the French and American missions seeking to fund the $4,000,000,000 French war debt moved rapidly today with the negotiators nearer together than they have been since the discussions began.

It was indicated that it had been agreed that a clause should be inserted in any settlement for a revision of payments in the event that it should become evident on both sides that the French capacity to pay had been overestimated, and in addition the American commission has reduced the proposed annuities from $150,000,000 to $130,000,000. Both of these plans are considered of great importance by the French delegates.

Another proposal would delay payments in the event of the exchange market not being favorable to the transfer of cash on the date fixed, thereby giving the French treasury a certain freedom of movement in choosing the more favorable time of transfer.

Dixon Legion Team is Assuming Shape

The Dixon Legion football team promises to put in the field against the Kewanee Bears next Sunday afternoon, the strongest aggregation that has ever been assembled in this city. Manager Ward Miller and Coach Paul Dee have been scouring the surrounding country for material and will be a credit to the team, and last night's practice session 16 candidates were rehearsing signals and getting in readiness for the opening of the season.

Several men appeared in the scrimmage and a great deal of speed. The team has a good field of kickers to draw from this season and Coach Dee is not definitely decided as to whom will be selected to do the heavy toe work for the fall. Sixteen men will compose the regular playing team this year and the names of the regular players will be announced Friday. Practice sessions have been ordered for tonight and tomorrow night when additional players will report for trials.

Alabama Man Elected Head American Bankers

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Oscar Wells, president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, Ala., was elected president of the American Bankers Association today to succeed William E. Knox of New York.

Mr. Wells was succeeded as first vice president by Melvin A. Trowler, president of the First Trust & Savings Bank of Chicago. Thomas R. Preston, president of the Hamilton Trust & Savings Bank of Chattanooga, Tenn., was elected second vice president. Mr. Wells served as the first governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, Tex. He was born in Platte county, Mo., in 1875, the year the association was founded.

One Case from Lee on Supreme Court Docket

The docket of the Illinois supreme court for the October term contains one case from Lee county. Case No. 16508 is one in which the people of the state of Illinois are made the defendant in an appeal to the supreme court by Attorney H. A. Brooks of this city who represented Hiram Levin, Ashton junk dealer, who was tried by a jury in the county court and found guilty of violation of the prohibition law.

COMINSKY IS NOT GUILTY HIS ATTY. TELLS REPORTERS

Says Motive for Him to Murder Fulton Girl is Not Found

Fulton Ill., Sept. 30.—“John Cominsky did not kill Mrs. McKee, and we will prove it,” said Attorney J. J. Ludens of Sterling today.

Mr. Ludens, formerly Whiteside county state's attorney, was retained in the case late last week. He has already started work in what promises to be the hardest-fought legal battle ever waged in Whiteside county—a battle on whose outcome rests the fate of the Cottonwoods farmer against whom a charge of first degree murder has been preferred.

Mr. Ludens was reached by telephone, at his office in Sterling. He said that inasmuch as he had been engaged in the murder case only a few days ago, he had not yet had an opportunity to go into the case very thoroughly. He intends, however, to go to Morrison in a day or two for a long conference with his client.

Says Motive is Missing.
“There was absolutely no motive on the part of Cominsky to kill Mrs. McKee,” said the Sterling attorney. “They had had no trouble, and he had not seen her for weeks and weeks. It is true he had been previously arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace but that arrest was spite-work on the part of another man who wished to save his own neck. The name of this man will be divulged later.”

Try to Prove Alibi.
The defense will endeavor to establish an alibi for the accused man. Mr. Ludens declared that on the night Mrs. McKee was slain Cominsky who had been in Fulton in the early evening, arrived at his home east of Fulton about 10 o'clock, and remained at home the rest of the night. His mother and sister know this, Mr. Ludens said.

The Sterling attorney did not comment on evidence against Cominsky on which the state has based its case against him, such as coincidence of his fingerprints with prints found on the window screen at the Fulton telephone office and finding of a handkerchief marked with the letter “J” in the bed where the body lay. He intimated that these and other circumstances which came out at the inquest and on which the state's case is founded, will be explained.

Mr. Ludens was asked if he had any theory as to the probable identity of Mrs. McKee's slayer. He intimated that he might have such a theory, but that his purpose was to demonstrate that the slayer was not John Cominsky. “It is up to the state to find and punish the real slayer,” said Mr. Ludens.

Building Up Case.

While Mr. Ludens is preparing his defense in the Cominsky case, county authorities across the river are actively engaged in completing their case, for presentation next week to the Whiteside county grand jury, which convenes in Morrison.

Morrison Man Bought Doyle Cleaning Works

B. C. Hazard of Morrison has purchased the Doyle cleaning and dyeing establishment on West First street and has taken possession of the building. New cleaning equipment is being installed and the building will undergo many changes under the new management. Mr. Hazard has had several years of experience in his business and conducted a similar establishment at Morrison for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle, who have conducted the business for the past eight years, have no definite plans for the future but will remain in Dixon for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Hazard expect to move to Dixon to make their home.

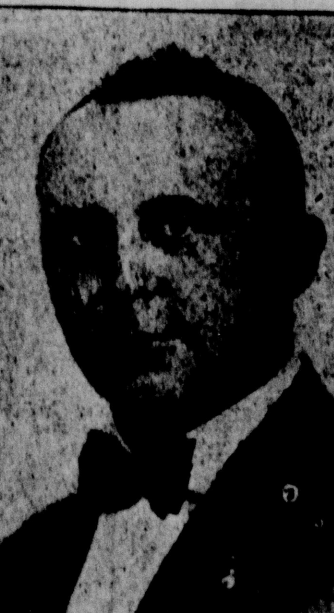

Precautions Taken to Guard Union Delegates

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—After two crowded days of entertainment and preparatory work here for the Inter-Parliamentary Union conference starting in Washington tomorrow, four hundred foreign delegates left Pennsylvania Station on a special train this morning for the capital.

Hundreds of Carloads of Fruit Being Shipped

Fruit shipments from the west continue to increase over the Northwest line. On Sunday 421 cars of fruit were led at the West Clinton lee house and Monday morning 217 cars were led. On Sunday 466 cars of stock passed through enroute to the Chicago markets. There were 21 freight trains east Sunday during the day and 15 trains west bound.

Dixon Knight Elevated by K. Templar Conclave

GLEN F. COE

Dixon Knight Templar who was elevated to the office of Deputy Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of the state of Illinois, at the annual convocation in Chicago. He ranks next to John Paul Hobbs of LaGrange who was chosen Grand Commander. The new officers, the list of which follows, were installed today at the Hotel LaSalle:

Glen F. Coe, Dixon, deputy grand commander.
Edward A. Glad, Chicago, grand generalissimo.
Aubrey Prosser, Evanston, grand captain general.
David W. Isenoud, Clinton, grand senior warden.
Edwin D. Wade, Oak Park, grand junior warden.
Sylvester O. Spring, Chicago, grand treasurer.
William H. Jennings, Chicago, grand recorder.
Thomas G. Taggart, Chicago, grand standard bearer.
Louis E. Wangelin, Belleville, grand sword bearer.
Richard J. Howells, Streator, grand captain of the guard.
George H. Murphy, Riversdale, grand prelate.
Frank Hylliar, Peoria, grand color bearer.

The Dixon officer is next in line to head the grand commandery of Illinois and is one of the most popular officers of the state. The honor bestowed upon him at yesterday's election which marked the closing of the annual convention in Chicago, brought forth many congratulations from all parts of Illinois.

Grandons Purchased LaSalle Daily Post

(LaSalle Daily Tribune)
La Salle, like many other cities throughout the country, will soon have a “newspaper alley.”

This fact became evident Saturday afternoon when the La Salle Daily Post and plans to erect a new building on the Gooding street site to house the paper. His son, Preston F. Grandon, who has been running a weekly newspaper at Quincy, Mich., will be installed as head of the LaSalle venture.

The Grandons, according to the father, will be the sole owners of the newspaper.

“We have no partners,” Mr. Grandon declared when the transfer was made Saturday.

The McLain Sisters, present owners of The Post, would not corroborate the reported sale of their plant today. They did, however, say that the newspaper was to erect a new building on the site purchased Saturday and that construction would probably start within ten days.

The elder Mr. Grandon will not become a resident of LaSalle, continuing his home at Sterling.

Increased Pay for Men on Jury Shows Effect

The law passed by the last legislature which increased the daily wage of petit jurors from $2 to $5 has had a very noticeable effect on the panels drawn for the September term in the Lee County circuit court. The first panel has reported for duty and the number seeking to be excused is the smallest in years.

Court attaches have remarked at the absence of prospective jurors seeking to be excused for the term and when the first panel reported Monday afternoon Judge Harry Edwards found that he was obliged to dismiss four of the men and some delay was experienced in securing this small number who sought to be excused, next convocation.

BAD WEATHER STOPS LABOR OF RESCUERS

May be Forced Now to Try to Raise Sunk Submarine

U. S. Submarine Base, New London, Conn., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Rough weather having caused a suspension of work at the scene of the wrecked submarine S-51, officers at the submarine base today said that it might be necessary to stop the efforts at rescue and try to salvage the boat.

Such a step, however, would have to be ordered by the navy department at Washington and probably would be taken only on recommendation of Rear Admiral Christy in command of the rescue work, who so far has refused to give up hope that some of the 31 remaining men who went down with her more than four days ago might still be alive.

The beginning of salvage operations would mean that efforts to lift the stern of the sunken submarine which has been to patch the wrecking lighters, would be abandoned and divers would try to patch the hole punched in her hull by the steamer City of Rome, perhaps put pontoons under her and attach her to barges to be towed to the surface.

Would Take Days
The time it would take for such work would be uncertain for it has not been determined how far the S-51 has settled in the sandy bottom of the ocean. It would be a matter of days however.

All rescue operations have been suspended because of the unfavorable weather conditions. Rear Admiral Christy reported in a message today to the submarine base here.

The message from Admiral Christy, who is in charge of the fleet working over the spot where the S-51 went down last Friday night after being rammed by the S. S. City of Rome, said:

“Present weather conditions S-51 make operations impossible.”

This was the first word to come from the rescue fleet since late last night, excepting a brief weather report which indicated that diving operations at least could be resumed early today.

Plans to make another attempt to raise the submarine by the two giant cranes were thwarted when the lumbering craft were forced to return to New port early today after a mid-night attempt to join the rescue fleet.

The cranes were being held in readiness however, to proceed at once if conditions moderated sufficiently to permit.

Rear Admiral Christy has refused to give up hope that some of the men who went down with the ship are still alive and his feeling is shared by Captain E. J. King, commander of the submarine base. Many of the other officers sorrowfully admit, however, that they can see little chance of any survivors being found, particularly with the elements delaying the rescue work still further.

Forty Divers Active

Forty deep sea divers are aboard the boats of the rescue fleet, anxious to aid in the effort to reach the sunken submarine before all hope is abandoned. Several trips were made to the ocean floor yesterday after two bodies were brought to the surface on early trips, and later the divers cleared away debris and took other steps to enable them to continue the search of the hull more expeditiously.

The submarine S-50, whose sister ship lies 135 feet below her, is being used to pump air into the S-51 and at the same time serves for divers rehearsals. Before going below the underwater workers are made familiar with all parts of the submersible and given an opportunity to try out the various openings with their diving suits on to determine whether these passages can be safely negotiated below.

Franklin Woodmen to Present Play Tomorrow

The Modern Woodmen camp at Franklin Grove will present “The Missouri Girl” in the auditorium at the camp ground Thursday evening. The author of the play, Fred Raymond of Sycamore, will be present and play Zeke, the leading comedy part. This is one of the best and cleanest comedies ever seen on the stage, and will be long remembered by those who see it.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Installation of officers and competitive drills occupied the Illinois Knights Templar on the closing day of their 65th convocation. Peoria was chosen for the next convocation.

TODAY'S MARKET REPORTS

Wheat Jumped Six Cents

at Opening of Trading
Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Six cents a bushel sudden jump in the price of September delivery of wheat formed an interesting feature of grain trading today.

The fact that this was the last day for settlement of September wheat contracts was chiefly responsible for the quick advance which carried September following wiping out most of 1.37 1/2% yesterday's finish. A slight lumber up to 1.43 1/2% as compared with the grain.

Shipping for September wheat was said to be for millers. The bulk of business though, was in December and May with prices tending upward but keeping within ordinary limits.

Friendship Lodge to Celebrate Anniversary

The eighty-fourth anniversary of Friendship Lodge, No. 7 A. F. & A. M. of this city will be celebrated with appropriate services Wednesday evening, Oct. 7, at the Masonic hall. A banquet will be served at 6:30 to be followed with a brief program. Right Worshipful Brother E. C. Mullen, chairman of the board of grand examiners of the grand lodge, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Illinois, will be the speaker of the evening. An orchestra will furnish music during the evening and a male quartette will also entertain.

Waltonians to Enjoy Banquet Thursday Eve

Members of the 124th Walton League of Dixon are to enjoy a banquet at the Elks club tomorrow evening. The losing team in the membership contest which was staged last spring has decided to make good their wager and tomorrow evening will have the winning team as their guests. Ray S. Kline is in charge of the feeding of the Waltonians and cards have been mailed out to the members. These should be returned at once and any who desire to attend the banquet at 6:30 Thursday evening should communicate with the chairman without delay.

A. F. & A. M.

A special meeting of Friendship lodge No. 7 A. F. & A. M. will be held at the Masonic hall this evening for degree work.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

STOP AND GO SIGNS

Editor Telegraph—How can gratifying results be obtained in the reduction of minor traffic accidents and the speeding up of traffic with stop and go signals at Galena ave and First and Second streets intersection? That's the question our commissioners are going to find out. Is traffic going to be accelerated, are accidents going to be reduced? Which is the best, the stop and go signal placed in the street intersection or the one suspended overhead? The only way stop and go signals will be a success in our city will be for the pedestrians. They will give them a chance to get across the street; but to place signals of this kind on a "through" street seems a little out of place. Every driver in Dixon has just begun to respect Galena ave as a through street, and he only needs to be constantly reminded of that fact and the writer believes that instead of spending $1200 for two stop and go signals for First and Second streets the commissioners should try some small stationary day and night illuminated stop signs on both sides of Galena avenue from Everett St. north to Seventh St. south and keep Galena ave open to traffic over these hills. Give through traffic the right of way and get the speeders.

Apples and Potatoes Take Lead in Markets

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Apples and potatoes are now the leaders of the marketing movement of fruits and vegetables throughout the United States. The Government Bureau of Agricultural Economics, reported today that in particular the movement of apples has been gaining volume rapidly, total shipments for week being 5,601 carloads as compared with 2,228 a week ago. Big shipments of potatoes are also in progress, averaging close to 1,000 carloads a day. Notwithstanding the great and increasing supply of apples and potatoes, the tendency of the whole list of fruits and vegetables is to higher prices following a downward trend a fully a month.

Most of the peach supply at present is coming from New York with values 50c to $1 less than quotations a week ago.

105 Employees of Pennsy Railroad Retired Today

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Retirement came today for one hundred and six employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, from president to hostler. Of these 24 were in the western territory with headquarters here. Under the company's pension plan they are placed on the "roll of honor" beginning tomorrow. Samuel Rea, president, started 46 years 4 months ago as a rod man.

CHIEF OF NAVY'S BUREAU OF ENGINEERING REVERTED

Storm Center in Oil Investigation is Relieved Today

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Rear Admiral J. K. Robinson, a storm center in the Senate oil investigation, concluded his four year term as chief of the navy bureau of engineering today and reverted to his regular rank of captain. He had requested permission to retire before relinquishing his bureau post, but this was refused by President Coolidge.

Had the permission been granted, he would have retired as a rear admiral, the rank he held as chief of the bureau. Although in line some time ago for promotion from captain to permanent rear admiral, his name was passed over by selection boards. He was promoted automatically in a year under the age limit law.

Admiral Robinson was the officer selected by Secretary Denby to represent him in many of the negotiations conducted by the interior department under Secretary Fall for leasing the naval oil reserves. He contended throughout the inquiry that his course was based entirely on considerations of national defense.

What assignment he will be given has not been determined nor has a successor yet been selected to head the bureau.

LAFOLLETTE, JR. EASY VICTOR IN WISCONSIN VOTE

Will Succeed His Dad in United States Senate in December

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The special election held yesterday chose the thirty year old son of its late senator Robert M. La Follette to represent the badger state in the United States senate.

The approval was emphatic, as shown by the enormous majorities that nearly every county in the state gave to the new senator, one, Rock—that rock-ribbed home of the stalwart section of the republican party refused to bow to R. M. La Follette, Jr. The other three counties of the first congressional district, formerly considered invulnerable when the right wing of Wisconsin republicanism was being put to test, failed to show the staunchness exhibited by her sister county of Rock.

With 315 precincts of the 2692 in the state missing this morning owing to the heavy rain storm in the northwest section of the state, La Follette secured a plurality of 134,544 over Ditchman and a majority of 112,915. Approximately half the voting strength of the state went to the polls.

$5,000,000 in Fines Collected by Treasury

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The collector of the treasury handled 29, 620 cases involving violation of the national prohibition act in the fiscal year ending June 30 and collected in fines and compromises more than $5,000,000 in these cases.

Announcement of the collectors work was made in his annual report today which showed that 529 of the cases resulted in offers to compromise. Of this number 328 were accepted, the government collecting fines in them of about $3,000,000, eleven were rejected and 120 still were pending at the beginning of the current year.

GET AT THE CAUSE!

Many Dixon Folks Are Showing How to Avoid Needless Suffering.

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike, the sufferer is tormented and what with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dimness, life is indeed a burden. Don't's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys—have brought peace and comfort to many Dixon people. Profit by this Dixon resident's experience.

Mrs. Mary S. Harris, 294 Lincolnway, says: "I had bearing down pains in the small of my back and when I stooped, sharp, stabbing catches took me through my kidneys and I had dizzy spells and specks came before my eyes, blurring my sight. My kidneys acted too often and I was in a tired, worn out condition. After using a few boxes of Don's Pills I was cured."

RELIABILITY AIR PLANES ON THIRD DAY OF JOURNEY

Left Fort Crook, Neb. Early Today for St. Joseph, Mo.

Fort Crook, Neb., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The third day flight in the Ford reliability airplane tour was initiated at Fort Crook Field shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, when Earl "Rusty" Campbell, piloting Ship O, took off for St. Joseph, Mo., the next stop. Other planes in the flight, 17 in all, followed at two minute intervals.

C. S. "Casey" Jones, whose machine the Curtiss "Carrier Pigeon," was damaged in landing here yesterday afternoon, was allowed to re-enter the race.

Jones, with the aid of Fort Crook mechanics and others in the flight, was virtually all night, and had his plane tuned up and ready for a deferred start, which he must make by noon.

Although the weather was not ideal for flying, officials in charge of the flight said the hardest part of the tour was over. A wind was at the back of the south-bound planes.

ARRIVE AT ST. JOE

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Fokker plane, first of the 17 engaged in the Ford reliability tour, landed at Rosecrans Field here at 10:30 o'clock this morning, exactly on schedule. The plane, sailing from Omaha, encountered no difficulties and made a pretty landing.

FINIS—

By Hal Cochran.

You kin talk about the barren of the desert lands and such. And after all your talkin' has been said. There's really no comparin' with the barren sort of touch that my garden has. It's absolutely dead.

A cabbage head is standing as the only thing that's left. And day by day I fear 'twill cease to grow. There never was a garden that of life was so bereft. It lived—and died. I guess 'twas ever so.

I planted in the summer and watched the daily rise of things that made our table quite appealing. My crop was quite a hummer and it's hard to realize that naught but waste the place is now revealing.

We stand and eye it sadly, as we dream of growth days, when meals from home-grown food were gladly planned. And then we turn, not glady, to the annual winter ways, of eating things that other folks have canned.

ATTENDED DIXON MEETING FRIDAY—

Twenty-six ladies from this city went to Dixon Friday evening, where they attended a meeting of the Rebekah lodge in that city conducted along lines similar to which other meetings have and will be conducted in this district. There was a total attendance of 231 persons present, and Mrs. Webster, state president, from Chicago, and Mrs. Crowell of Rockford, were also present, and a very pretty ceremony of welcoming these officials was given by 12 girls, who presented the ladies with handsome bouquets. The meeting was spoken of as one full of interest. The Morrison lodge will hold a meeting of the same nature on Nov. 12 if present plans are carried out. Those from Morrison who were at the Dixon meeting were Mesdames Robert Jones, Rue Richmond, Walter Burritt, Frances Lewis, Ed. Knox, Mrs. A. G. Menus for the Family

BY SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—
Baked apples, cereal, thin cream, broiled bacon, stewed tomatoes with toast cubes, crisp whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—
Meat and vegetable pie, endive salad, graham bread, grapes, butter-scotch cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—
Beef broth with rice, broiled halibut steak, baked sweet potatoes, creamed cauliflower, peach soufflé, rye bread, milk, coffee.

Cubes of crisp toast lift a dish of stewed tomatoes from everyday fare to "company fixin's" and mean little extra work of the cook. Cut bread in slices not more than 1/4 of an inch thick. Then cut in strips just as wide as the bread is thick and cut the strips into squares. Dip quickly in and out of melted butter and put in a hot oven until a golden brown. The cubes will be deliciously crunchy with the tomatoes.

Meat and Vegetable Pie.
One cup coarsely chopped left-over lamb or beef, 16 tiny onions, 1 cup tomato pulp, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon minced sweet green pepper, 1 cup flour for crust, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, milk.

Peel onions and cook in boiling water until tender but not broken. Stir meat in water to cover until tender. Drain and save broth. Put a layer of onions into a well buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with flour and dot with bits of butter. Cover with a layer of meat. Sprinkle with flour and dot with butter. Cover with minced pepper. Rub cooked tomatoes through a coarse sieve to remove seeds. Add meat broth to tomato pulp with salt and pepper and pour in at one side of dish. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in butter with a fork or tips of fingers. Cut in milk with a knife, using enough milk to make a soft dough. Pat or roll on a well floured board, making the dough about 1/2 inch thick. Cut two gashes through the dough and cover meat with it. Bake twenty to twenty-five minutes in a hot oven and serve from baking dish.

BY CYNTHIA GREY—

There is too little beauty in the world today, mourns Stanley Baldwin, the prime minister of England.

Too much of the painting and sculpture is merely clever instead of beautiful, he points out.

And that may be true of art. It's also true that cleverness is at the bottom of nine-tenths of the feminine good looks of today.

The girl who looks "clever" passes for a beauty. Who cares whether her hair is naturally curly or whether it "got that way" by way of a beauty shop?

Who cares whether the glow in her cheeks was painted there by the sunshine or by a rouge puff? So long as it's a glow and not a daub?

Ten or fifteen years ago the girl with a sallow complexion remained sallow to the end of the story. The girl who dared to add a touch of color to her cheeks was considered anything but "nice."

If Dorothy was born with white eyelashes and eyebrows, she never thought of darkening them with mascara. In those days no one but actresses used mascara, anyway.

And if Dorothy timidly thought of rubbing the end of a burnt match across her eyebrows, thinking of it was as far as she ever got. A lady simply did not use make-up, and that was all there was to it!

Even the adventurous souls who covered themselves with talcum powder were frowned upon and questioned as to whether or not they had "fallen into the flour barrel."

Today no woman need be homely. There are hundreds of harmless aids to beauty, and the woman who put-tanically scorns to use them is out of luck, unless she happens to be that one woman in a million . . . a beauty!

I hold no brief for the beauty doctors, but I say this:

That it is not immoral to use a bit of vanishing cream and a touch of rouge.

That it is foolish to have drab, lustreless hair when there are so many ways of making it curly and glossy. And that any woman who can't look well in the "clever" little hats and suits of today is not using her brains in her choice of clothes.

To be unattractive is a sin, in a way. For unattractiveness brings no happiness to the eyes or heart of anyone. . . . and in the last analysis, the highest happiness is the highest good.

If you are one of the women who scorn vanity as one of the seven deadly sins, change your viewpoint. It's not wicked to try to be pretty. It's common sense.

Dixon Woman's Club To Sponsor Musicals

The first meeting of the year of the Dixon Woman's club to be held Friday night at 8:15 o'clock at the Christian church promises to be most delightful. The club will sponsor a musical.

The guests artists will be Violet Brady Stewart, an exceptionally gifted soprano and Nina Brady Lee, a most versatile and entertaining reader.

Mrs. J. Forrest Bell, is the gifted accompanist. These entertainers are prominent in musical circles in Elgin and the surrounding cities, where the charming personality of Mrs. Lee and brilliant vocal work of Mrs. Stewart are in great demand. It is hoped that all members of the club and their guests will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this concert.

The program for Friday evening follows:

CELEBRATED EIGHTY-EIGHTH BIRTHDAY—

Mrs. L. L. Heffley celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday quietly at her home, 1905 Third avenue, Tuesday, says the Sterling Gazette. Her son, George Heffley, and his wife, and Mrs. Cyrus Heffley were down from Dixon for the day and a number of old friends and neighbors called to extend congratulations and best wishes. Mrs. Heffley has not been in the best of health, but is better than she has been of late and was able to enjoy the day with her family and friends. Her many friends who were unable to call in person will unite with those who did so in wishing Mrs. Heffley many additional years of happiness.

WERE DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED AT MCKENNEY HOME—

Dan McKenney, son of Albertine McKenney was here from Chicago to spend Sunday at the home of his mother, bringing two Chicago guests with him, Herbert Parker and L. R. Morse. On Sunday evening the party was augmented by Messrs. Hal Hunt,

H. W. Thomson and Dr. C. E. Smith of Dixon. Mr. McKenney and son were voted gracious and royal entertainers.

LADIES' AID TO MEET—

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the church. Hostesses for the afternoon will be: Mrs. John Martensen, Mrs. Hannah Martensen, Mrs. John Mensch, Mrs. George Meyers, Mrs. Theodore Mosholder and Miss Louise Miller.

FASHION HINTS—

Velvet and Fur.

Velvet will lead all other fabrics for winter, and it will be used extensively for coats and wraps. It is effectively combined with some of the cheaper furs as well as the more costly variety.

Vogue of Bows.

Bows and knots of self material are very much liked for trimming on the small, close hats. The felt or velvet bow gives a youthful look that women cannot ignore.

E. R. B. CLASS TO MEET THURSDAY—

The E. R. B. class of St. Paul's Lutheran church will meet at the church Thursday evening and a picnic supper will be served at 7 o'clock. Each one should take her own sandwiches and one other dish of food for the supper.

TRIANGLE CLUB TO MEET THURSDAY EVENING—

The Triangle club of the Christian church will meet Thursday evening with Miss Margaret Cleaver, at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Cleaver, 703 Brinton avenue.

D. A. R. BOARD TO MEET FRIDAY—

The D. A. R. board will hold a meeting Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. A. L. Barlow, 317 Galena avenue.

GREAT MUSICIAN LEADS ORCHESTRA TO BE HEARD HERE

Civic Music Association Members Anticipate Treat Thursday

George Dasch, violinist and conductor of the Little Symphony, which will open the Dixon Civic Music Association's fall and winter schedule of entertainments with a concert at the Family Theater at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening, is a shining example of the thorough and well rounded attainments possible for and awaiting the earnest efforts of American-born and American-taught musicians. Born in Cincinnati, Ohio, on May 14, 1877, he evidenced at an early age a marked predilection for music. His studies were diligently pursued at the Cincinnati College of Music, where his violin teacher was Leandre Campanari, a famous pupil of Wilhelmj. After his graduation from this institution he was invited to become a faculty member, and taught at the college for several years. Later he was associated with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra for three years, under the direction of Frank Van der Stucken.

Accepting the invitation of Theodore Thomas to join the Theodore Thomas Orchestra (now the Chicago Symphony Orchestra), Mr. Dasch came to Chicago twenty-five years ago, and here he found an extensive field for musical activity for his many-sided gifts as soloist, teacher, conductor and chamber music player.

Through constant association with the Symphony Orchestra—for many years at the first violin desk, and at the present time as principal of the second violins—he has yet found time and energy for outside activities.

Had String Quartet.

About ten years ago Mr. Dasch organized the Philharmonic String Quartet, which organization has set a high standard for itself and has enjoyed hundreds of successful appearances in Chicago and other music centers. For a number of years the Philharmonic was Chicago's only representative string quartet.

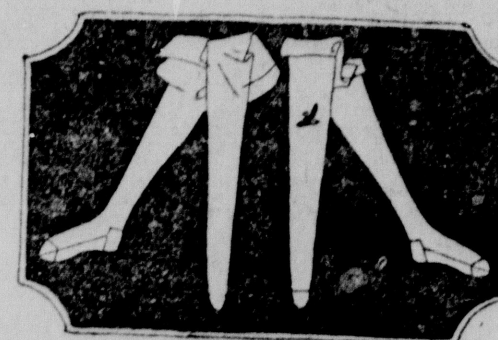

Mr. Dasch's work as conductor of the Chicago Art Institute Ensemble—

BIGNESS.

This is a big country, and the west is of a bigness beyond all eastern imagination.

The first eastern states were made horseback size. Later ones were stage coach size. The great west is railroad size. And the world is growing airplane small. It is a dizzy time. Go west, old foggy, and learn how big your country is.

But, across the great expanse of this matchless land, you see one thing that you can see nowhere else in the world.

That is a hundred million people, stretching from ocean to ocean, all speaking the same language and living, feeling and thinking in much the same fashion.

The high school faculties of Lewiston, Me., and Lewiston, Ida., could exchange places and go on the next day teaching the same things to pupils of the same previous training and coming from the same sort of homes. There is nowhere else on earth where such things are possible. We are no more "standardized" than some other peoples, but we have done it on an enormously wider scale.

BORDER PROTECTION.

Up in Stanley Park, the municipal park of Vancouver, B. C., a beautiful memorial has been dedicated. It is the President Harding International Good-Will Memorial, paid for by voluntary subscriptions from Canadian and United States citizens, principally Kiwanians. The words engraved on the tablet are taken from President Harding's speech, given in that city:

"What an object lesson of peace is shown today by our two countries to all the world! No grim-faced fortifications mark our frontiers, no huge battleships patrol our dividing waters, no stealthy spies lurk in our tranquil border hamlets. Only a scrap of paper, recording hardly more than a simple understanding, safeguards lives and properties on the Great Lakes, and only humble mile-posts mark the inviolable boundary line for thousands of miles through farm and forest.

"Our protection is in our fraternity, our armor is in our faith, and the tie that binds, more firmly each year, is ever-increasing acquaintance and comradeship through interchange of citizens; and the compact is not of perishable parchment, but of fair and honorable dealing, which, God grant, shall continue for all time."

What a tremendous thing it will be for the world when Europe reaches a stage in which it will say, "Our protection is in our fraternity," instead of "in our vast armies and navies."

FARM OUTLOOK GOOD.

"Prices of non-agricultural commodities," declared the federal reserve board late last week, after noting that the average price level had recovered from its summer recession, "which in 1923 were considerably above the general average for all commodities, have declined while those of agricultural commodities have increased by 16 percent and are at present above the general average. It appears that the recent price advance, as well as the present relatively high level, reflects an increase in the price of foodstuffs and other agricultural products, rather than a general rise in the prices of all groups of commodities."

The Wall Street News comments that in other words, the exchange basis of farm products for things which the farmers use is 16 percent higher than it was two years ago. It is true of grains abroad and of the urge of foreign manufacturers of cotton to replace depleted stocks. With the prospects of large grain crops in Europe for the current season, it is certain that the demand for American wheat, rye, etc., will be less this winter than last. That fact may react unfavorably upon domestic prices, although the probability exists that there will be an excellent demand for the home crops at home. There is no reason for believing that grain raisers will receive unprofitable prices for their products of 1925.

GRANGE WARS ON "DAYLIGHT SAVING."

Farmers and rural communities are unrelenting in their war on "Daylight Saving." They are responsible for its discontinuance in many cities and they have started a movement in the East which is likely to result in the question of its legality being settled in the supreme court of the land.

In Massachusetts the State Grange has brought suit in the United States Circuit Court to restrain the officials of the state from enforcing "daylight saving" as opposed to standard time.

A Grange bulletin says it is the purpose of the Massachusetts State Grange to push this interesting suit through to the limit and finally to the Supreme Court of the United States, to determine whether any state has a right—or any town within a state—to set up a time standard other than that fixed for national use under the zone system adopted by Congress years ago and commonly known as Standard Time. Massachusetts is the only state with a Daylight Saving statute, though in several other commonwealths "Daylight Saving" is permitted by local referendums.

The outcome of this unique suit which the Grange in Massachusetts has brought will be awaited with national interest for if there is a final decision by the United States Supreme Court the latter will be effective over the country as a whole and will settle for all time the legality of so-called "Daylight Saving," whose legal status has always been the subject of much controversy.

BY CHESTER H. ROWELL

It is, of course, no news to us Americans that we are the center of the world.

We have always been the center. In fact, the home town of each of us has always been the center of the country and of the world, and each one individually has been the center of that town.

Human nature is that way. But, getting up on the mountain top and surveying the world impersonally, is an exceedingly new thing.

Ten years ago, Europe was as little concerned with us as we with Europe. The history of our world had taken place mostly in Europe, and the center of most things was still there.

We were a great, new, crude people, interesting in our sheer bigness and in our childish pride in it. The "certain condescension in foreigners" still applied to us, and some of us still had inferiority complex enough to accept it.

Not now. We may be unpopular and misunderstood, but we are never ignored.

What we do or think about things is more considered than what anyone else does. We have become the financial and industrial center of the world, and are potentially its chief political and military factor.

If we are idealistic, as we were during and immediately following the war, the whole world rises to our inspiration.

If we suffer a sordid reaction, as we are doing, so does the world. If we will wear Paris fashions, they are the world's style. If we refuse, Paris changes them. No body likes us—great success is never loved—but everybody reckons with us.

It is a new experience to be thus taken at what has always been our own valuation.

We are the center of things in time, as well as in space and in importance. That, too, is always human nature.

Time consists of past, present and future, and its center is whatever instant we happen to be living.

But, just to be more self-centered, consider some of the reasons why we will be also acener of attention a thousand years from now.

Life became human with two in-

"Honestly, in all my 15 years of experience as a nurse I have never known of a medicine that compares with Tanlac." Is the glowing tribute of Nurse M. E. Chappelle.

"Time and again I have recommended Tanlac and always with surprising results. Some time ago my Mother complained of being generally run down and on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had no appetite, her stomach was disordered, digestion weakened and her bowels were most irregular.

"Tanic came to her aid at once, brought on a vigorous appetite so that she began to eat with the greatest relish, and made the digestive organs function properly once more. In a short time she was well, happy and strong, and although enough to look after her household duties and go out quite a little, too. This is why I praise Tanlac and consider it the best tonic and health builder ever discovered."

THE BURGLAR IS FOUND

There were so many people there watching for Daddy's burglar, that there wasn't anyone there to be a burglar.

It was funny that Daddy Cracknuts forgot to tell his wife about somebody stealing the gasoline out of his car.

But by the time he got to the Post Office and looked over his mail, and stopped at the Twins garage to talk to his friends, it was lunch time.

And at lunch he and Mrs. Cracknuts were so busy talking about the children's new school shoes, and about the postal card from Mrs. Gray that she was coming to visit them, that it never entered his head. It's just like a man to forget to tell his wife that he's been robbed, and that all his friends were coming that night to help him watch for the burglar.

The Cracknuts family lived in an apartment in the maple-tree, some three flights up. But of course their garage was on the ground floor.

That afternoon Daddy said he thought he'd go nut-hunting so as to find out exactly where the best nuts were. He wanted to be ready to set in a store the minute the first frost came.

Mrs. Cracknuts said she was glad to get the whole family out of the way as she had so much cleaning to do.

"The children spot up things so," she complained. "I never can bear to have Mother Gray Tail come and see the mess things get into. She always says I don't raise them right."

So Daddy spent his afternoon looking up chestnut and hickory nut trees, and hazel bushes, and Mrs. Cracknuts spent it cleaning.

Mrs. Cracknuts was so tired that night that she went to bed the very minute she had the children settled.

And Daddy said he'd just smoke one pipe and then he would come up, too. He was almost as tired as she was.

By that time Daddy had forgotten all about the stolen gasoline himself, and about his friends telling him ventions—fire and stone tools. Then for countless ages man roamed the world with no change beyond slight improvements in those tools and the things made with them.

Then came a few thousand years of bronze and a few hundred of iron. Then one more major invention, the alphabet, and intellectual and social progress began.

Several thousands of years of ups and downs, and finally two more major inventions—gunpowder and the printing press.

Then, for the first time, the world speeded up. And then the steam engine, the railroad, the telegraph, the telephone, electric light and motor, the bicycle, the automobile, the airplane, and the radio.

A long list, but nearly all of it with its social and intellectual consequences, almost in the last second of the last minute of the last hour of man's day on earth.

Whatever may happen in the future, to transform the external or the internal life of man, he will have to look back on these few generations as having made more changes than a hundred ages before.

Byron—White snakeroot, the poisonous weed that has resulted in the loss of considerable livestock on middle west farms this year, has been found growing in abundance in some of the wooded pastures in Byron township, according to Dr. O. F. Bakener, Byron veterinarian.

A farmer, recognizing the weed, brought a specimen to Dr. Bakener's office. The specimen was sent to the Department of Agriculture at Washington and identified as white snake-root. The department head urged farmers to make a thorough inspection of their pastures to rid the farms of the pest.

Dr. Bakener and D. E. Werren, Ogle farm advisor are making an attempt to familiarize farmers with the appearance of the weed so they may aid in its extermination.

RENEW MAN HUNT

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP)—A rusted shotgun with which Joseph Stemas, 60, Toluca, is believed to have killed a sheriff and chief of police at Toluca last week, was found in the same room of his house in which the double killings occurred and gave rise to belief that he had returned to his home during last night. The find led to a renewed intensive manhunt today in Marshall county.

Blood hounds were again used. Stemas' bedroom slippers and his hat were missing from his home today. The discoveries were made when the bloodhounds were taken to the house to pick up a trail. A resident of North Chillicothe told officers today that she had fed a man answering the description of Stemas last Saturday morning. The Stemas home has been

RE-DISCOVERING ILLINOIS

By LESTER B. CROSBY

Illinois Chamber of Commerce

When one thinks of Springfield he usually thinks in terms of governors, legislators, lobbyists, bills and political jockeying. He may feel that here somehow, the black magic is made that vanishes the taxpayers' money or the other magic that brings concrete roads and varied benefits.

When I started for Springfield a friend said, "The legislature is not in session now. How can you get a story out of Springfield?" And I replied, "We shall see."

Yes, there should be another Springfield, a Springfield that lies beyond the edge of the spotlight and when you get right down to it this Springfield that is not generally seen is the real Springfield.

I found in Springfield a city of 66,000 persons; about 75,000 if you count those houses and people hanging on the rim of the city just outside of the incorporation. I found a city that claims a population of 750,000 in its trading area. We'll accept that for a trading area is difficult to define.

I found a city of approximately one hundred separate industries, surprisingly diversified and mostly owned by home people who have developed them with home workers and home money.

The public service corporation may be exceptions in this strictly home-ownership but they are important. Here are a few facts that were given me:

Sixteen lines of railroad radiating out of Springfield employ 1,600 persons living in the city; power, light and street railway corporations employ 600 more; the Central Illinois Public Service Corp., a $60,000,000 company with headquarters only in Springfield, 400; the telephone company, 250 more. That's a total of 2,450 performing the business of public service.

Here also in Springfield I found the Illinois Watch Co., organized in 1870, which has never produced anything but very fine watches. Today the cheapest made has 17 jewels. This plant, headed by Jacob Bunn, president, turns out 250,000 watches a year and employs 1,250 persons, the most of them highly skilled artisans.

I found also the Sangamo Electric company which probably made your meter. Besides its central factory in Springfield where it makes its more delicate parts it has branch factories in Toronto, Ponder's End, near London and in Osaka, Japan.

The Springfield plant employs about 1,000 workmen and the branches 600 more. Robert C. Lanphier, general manager, smilingly mentioned that this great industry which sells its meters everywhere on earth that meters are used, was started on a $200 investment in a patent just after he left college.

Built up as an associate company with the Illinois Watch company, it was developed and made possible here because of the skilled workmen trained and developed in the watch factory. It is a commentary on the quality of workmanship put out by this Illinois city that Sangamo meters are standard on the ships of all navies and are used on all submarines. The output today is about 650,000 a year.

It may surprise some to know that Springfield is an important life insurance center. Three companies with headquarters here have placed more than $300,000,000 worth of life insurance. Besides that there are several indemnity companies whose insurance runs into a big figure.

J. H. Young of the American Banking company, assured me that a recent check-up showed that Springfield stands second among the cities of the United States in number of hospital beds in ratio to population. That would make it a notable surgical and medical center.

Plans are under way to form an artificial lake to be called Lake Springfield. It will be thirteen miles long, from a quarter of a mile to two miles wide, will cover 8,500 acres and will impound 22,000,000 gallons of water. It will be formed by damming the Sangamon River. By an act of the legislature the city is enabled to acquire and control the land along the shores of the lake under condemnation proceedings.

Within the Springfield switching district, which means within about three miles of the city, 3,000,000 tons of coal is mined normally each year. This industry employs perhaps 5,000 men. For about four years now the coal industry has been in a slump but other industries of Springfield have absorbed the idle labor. One of the biggest mines, elaborately equipped, is taking coal from directly under the city.

Six months ago a stock yards was opened in Springfield because it is in the center of one of the greatest hog and cattle districts in the world and because there were no nearby markets. In the first six months more than $2,000,000 in cash was paid to farmers and 60,915 animals were handled. Farmers brought in animals from a distance of 60 miles by truck—another modern selling innovation. These animals, assembled here are all fed, sorted, graded and forwarded alive to other markets. An abattoir is now being planned and next year, probably, slaughtering will be added.

Fourteen years ago G. E. Weaver and L. A. Weaver started Weaver Mfg. Co. with a few ideas and a little cash. Today the company has a large and roomy plant of red face brick and hundreds of square yards of glass to let in the sunlight. It employs 300 men who make auto accessories which include jacks and wrecking appliances.

Building construction in Springfield for an average of three years, has run more than $4,000,000 a year. The business district reflects development, modern steel buildings of "skyscraper" type going in for hotels and stores. A city planning scheme is being worked out for a city of 120,000 persons. Last year the Illinois Power company spent $1,600,000 in Springfield on building construction alone.

Abraham Lincoln's tomb is in Springfield and here are many things that awaken memories of the Great Emancipator. Pilgrimages to the Lincoln Shrine in recent years have become of real importance to Springfield. Last summer in one day three special trains came in carrying 1,800 school children from Iowa, a pilgrimage arranged by Kiwanis clubs. School children from all over Illinois and Boy Scout organizations have made similar pilgrimages.

Springfield has that elusive thing called atmosphere. It has been built up around the various political and governing administrations. Governor Richard Yates, when he ceased to be governor, chose Springfield for his home. So did Senator L. Y. Sherman when he retired. There have been many more who have grown into this political social life and have chosen to continue it. It means that friends thus cling to friends. Governor Len Small and family at present dwell in the governor's mansion.

Springfield will have five booths at the Illinois Products Exposition to show the output of its hundred industries. This exposition will be held by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce in the American Exposition Palace, 666 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago, on October 8 to 17. Sixty-five downstate cities and 200 industries all in Illinois, will participate.

THE LIMITED MAIL

Copyright, 1925, Warner Bros.
"THE LIMITED MAIL," with Monte Blue, is a dramatization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Bob Wilson, the young tramp, conceives the grief-stricken Jim Fowler, who has tried to end his life, that his duty is to live and care for his baby son, whose birth caused the death of his mother. They are at Jim's home in Crater City and Fowler induces Bob to abandon his life as a vagabond and seek a job with the railroad there. Wilson, who had saved the Limited Mail, is a college graduate and mystery surrounds his voluntary adoption of a hobo's existence.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

"What could I have done if Providence hadn't sent you in my path? Killed myself, or gone to pieces—with not a living relative to do for me what you, a—," Jim broke down.

"A homeless bum!" prompted Bob drily, throwing the penknife at a belligerent bumblebee.

To cover his embarrassment Jim reached down and wrestled Bob to his feet.

"I'm sorry," he said. "Bob, I'm going to be old womanish enough to advise you to do one of two things. The first is, that if you are breaking someone's heart by remaining away and it is just something that can be explained and forgiven, don't ruin your life and others. Remember the desolation you've seen that couldn't be helped in my little home."

Jim paused, anxiously, his eyes watching for some sign of a break, some hint of an impression, in Bob's eyes. But he looked in vain; Bob stood monumentally unblinking, unsmiling and unanswering. Jim continued slowly after a few moments.

"Wouldn't it be great if you got to the throttle of the Limited herself some day?"

"The second is, if you can't or don't want to do the first, that you don't come down with me here in Crater City, where you bury yourself here in a hole, and stay here. This town is a hell of a place. A fungus knuckle on a transcontinental railroad, with all the prospects of a future any different than its barren and laborious past. No one ever comes here who doesn't have to. You'll be as isolated here as on a desert island, and I can't give you any more comfort than a hoboing."

"It isn't the comfort I'm considering, nor the attractiveness of a tramp's life," said Bob, speaking quietly and very deliberately. "It's just the satisfaction of knowing that as a bum I would be, like every bum, a living red flag of protest against the top-heavy humbuggery of civilized society. Hobodom as a whole social gesture is a crystallized thumbing of the nose by the least hypocritical minority of mankind at the useless shams and cant of the smug majority."

"Then why can't a man of your attainments, who obviously combines breeding and intellect with a lack of hypocrisy, be individualistic in his expression of contempt for the whole social scheme," said Jim, his words tripping on one another's heels in his anxiety to put over the happy inspiration that he had seized upon. "Why can't you stay here and get a job on the railroad and demonstrate your own private contempt by helping to shuttle the smug majority back and forth over the Mountain Division in their endless gaddings?"

Bob laughed at the boyish revelation of Jim's confidence that his eager enthusiasm would assure victory for his argument. And, still, Bob could think of no good reason for passing up Jim's proposal. It grew upon him sharply that he would be safer here in Crater City from chance contact with anyone he knew than he would be roaming around the country, even as a tramp. If the town's name of "Crater City" was geographically apt, then the social status of its citizens might be well described as "enclerated." Bob chuckled with unholy glee; he would become an oiler or a switchman; something lowly, something "poor but honest." Oh, it was rich! If only they—if only she—could know.

Bob was roused from the daze of reflections into which he had drifted by a resounding crack on the shoulder from Jim, who misunderstood the causation but not the consequence of Bob's chuckling.

"You'll stay," he rejoiced. "If I can find work—yes," promised Bob, grinning as he grasped and shook the hand that Jim thrust out.

"Today—this afternoon—this very next fifteen minutes—is the best time to see about a job. We'll put aside the delight of mumbly-peg—we'll have to anyway, seeing that you lost your knife—and hike right down to see Morran, the Yardmaster. He's a good friend of mine and he'll steer you into the right berth. Say, what job are we going to get for you, anyhow?"

Talking rapidly, foolishly, in his excited interest, Jim had already led Bob out to the front road and off in the direction of the wide-spread yards that made Crater City a veritable cobweb spun with steel threads; a chugging, heaving, smoking cobweb over and around and through which these fussed—by day in the sticky glare of an unshaded sun, and by night in the yellow glimmering of a thousand of its electric imitators—an overland and begimmed host of human ants who, from time to time, scuttled out of the path of the Mallet locomotives that sped across the web like giant spiders.

"Will it be so easy for me to get a job that I can have a choice?" asked Bob as they swung down-grade on the gravelly hill road. Bob knew that "despite his present grooming—so different from the stubble and dirt of him on that fateful night a month before!—and his neat, if rather confined, appearance in Jim's second best suit, he had become familiar to every child and householder and trainman in Crater City during his stay at Jim's cottage as "the hobo who saved the Limited." Therefore, he asked smilingly.

"Isn't it apt to be thought something of a social phenomenon for a tramp to be seeking work?"

"It sure is," Jim chuckled, "and that's what will put you over. They'll be flabbergasted enough to make you roundhouse foreman. Seriously, though, after Morran sizes you up he'll fit you in some place, all right."

He studied in silence for a few moments Bob's straight, lithe figure and swinging, elastic carriage. Then, with fond admiration,

"You're a husky customer, and I guess Morran'll put you to firing. You can step up to driving, from that, when you know the ropes. Say, wouldn't it be great if you got to the throttle of the Limited herself some day, and we'd be making the run together?"

Bob smiled to himself at Jim's naive summation of the ultimate goal of Crater City's ambitious citizenry. A small mark, to say the least, for one of his. Still, outwardly he agreed in a flat tone that undoubtedly it would be an ideal achievement, but too high and too far to be dreamt of for the present.

They were down into the town now. Crater City, cupped in a jagged saucer of ancient volcanic foothills that surged over many broad counties like congealed ocean waves, was intolerantly conscious of its standing as Mountain Division Headquarters of the great, cross-continent, Transrockian Railroad and impudently boastful of its importance as the largest town—despite its modest thousand odd souls—in a day's run, east or west, over mountain or prairie. A tartly modern Main Street rose in chicken and goat haunts on the hill and flowed its cobblestoned way past thin banks of houses and, finally, a block-long accretion of garages, stores and a bank just before it mushroomed out into the green, scraggly-flowered lake of the Transrockian Depot plaza; thence its commercial footstaple eddied into a besmirched street that ran parallel to the railroad.

Cy Williams of the Phillies displayed considerable pep against Burleigh Grimes. In addition to smashing out three hits, Cy stole a base and scored three runs.

Zack Wheat, outfielder of the Dodgers, had a perfect day at bat at the expense of pitcher Pierce of the Phillies. Wheat collected three hits including a double, in three times up.

SECOND WORLD'S SERIES FOR VET AFTER 16 YEARS

Babe Adams of Pirates Will Have Memories of Other Days

Pittsburgh, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Sixteen years ago, on a cold October day, there came into everlasting baseball fame a bulky Missouri ploughman, for the moment one of the great mount-men of the day, Charles (Babe) Adams.

Detroit had won the American League pennant that year, 1909, and Pittsburgh the National, but the Pirates pitching staff had crumpled at the last—with one exception. Adams, a first year man, had won two games and stood on the mound at Detroit in the final struggle, facing another famous right-hander of that day—the late "Wild Bill" Donovan, killed in the Twentieth Century Limited wreck while on his way to attend the baseball league meetings in 1923.

With Detroit was the great Tyrus Raymond Cobb of Georgia, still great after 20 years; the powerful Sam Crawford and a string of other dangerous batsmen. But Adams carried the series and the world's championship to Pittsburgh by permitting only six hits, materially aided by bow-legged, fighting Hans Wagner who seemed to be everywhere at once. Pittsburgh scored eight runs for a decisive conquest in this seventh and final game.

Babe is Now 43

Today Babe Adams, now 43 years old, stands ready to pitch his heart out for another Pittsburgh triumph in world's series combat and the sentiment of the Pirates fans very likely will draw him into action in at least one of the games. His arm has not the stamina of old but his courage and will remain.

Babe has had a notable career. Born in Tipton, Ind., in 1882, he went with his father to Mt. Moriah, Mo., in early life. His father was a tiller of the soil and so was Babe until his work as pitcher for his home town Haymakers came to notice. The Haymakers team of the Missouri Valley League picked him up in 1905 and he won 30 out of 40 games, enough to attract the attention of the St. Louis Cardinals. After spending half of the season on a St. Louis bench he was sent to Louisville and thence to Denver. In the Colorado capital he became a hero, with 38 victories out of 40 games, and Pittsburgh snatched him away for a short trial in 1908. Then again he went to Louisville and pitched so well that he came back to the Pirates to stay.

After his remarkable work in the world's series of 1909, Adams remained for a long time in Pittsburgh, but finally sailed in 1917 and departed for the lower leagues. But he pitched remarkable ball for Hutchinson of the Western and Kansas City offered him an opportunity. It was the road back to fame, a road few major leaguers have traveled. The veteran conquered Columbus twice in the season of 1918, allowing one hit each time, to show he was back in form.

The latter part of the season saw him return to the Pirate fold and remain there. In his career in the minors he has pitched in 2,476 innings, equal to 275 full games. This season he has participated in the "credit for a dozen contests," winning as many as he has lost.

CHAMPS' INFIELD GIVEN EDGE OVER PITTSBURGH BUNCH

Men More Experienced and Steadier in Real Crisis

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The foremost two infield combinations of present day major league ranks will bear much of the brunt of the world's series battle.

Defensively, the Senators—Judge, Stan Harris, Peckinpaugh and Bluge—have a more consistent record behind them, besides the advantage of having had their mettle tested in the fire of last fall's championship conflict. But on the attack, the advantage is with the Pittsburgh quartet. Grantham or McInnis at first, Moore at second, Wright at short and Traynor on third.

Batting records for the season show all five of these Pirates well beyond the 300 mark, all figuring as main cogs in the club's attack besides measuring up to their defensive responsibilities. Only Judge and his first base understudy, Joe Harris, are in the charmed hitting circle among the Senators, but the averages do not reveal the ability of coming through in the pinch as possessed by Stan Harris and Peck. Their bats were mightiest in the critical moments of the last world series.

Senators Experienced

Washington has the older and more experienced combination, steady, smooth working and always rising to its best in the emergency. If the Senators are to be given any edge over their rivals, at all, they are entitled to it on these points in the opinion of most observers.

The keystone combination of Peck and Harris has few rivals in the game today for smartness and all around ability. Bluge's remarkable ground covering ability helps this pair set a double play pace unexcelled in either league. Last fall the Senators set a new world's series record with ten double plays.

The Pirates infield array is rounder and more spectacular, particularly on its left wing, where Wright and Traynor are a sparkling pair, but at times they also have shown erratic tendencies. Wright, incidentally, has led all his teammates in driving in runs in two consecutive seasons.

Comparisons on the right side of the field, however, are not favorable to the Pirates for Moore does not measure up to the versatile standard set by Harris while neither McInnis nor Grantham is as polished in handling his position as Judge.

PLAYING WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY IN AFTERNOON TESTS

Impossible to Get Any Attendance at Morning Contests

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Second round matches were played today in the women's National Golf Championship at the St. Louis Country Club, reducing the contestants to eight. The victors had to wait until nearly dark to know that they had won, for the matches, for the first time in women's events were played in the afternoon starting at 1:30.

This late start made it impossible for the last match, to finish until dusk, but it gave those who cared to follow the play of the experts a chance to do the house work before

INTERPRETATION OF BOXING LAWS UP TO ATTY. GEN.

Whether Indiana Officials Will be Liberal is Unknown

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Now that Dempsey and Willis have signed for a ten round contest in Michigan City next year, the construction of the Indiana boxing law by state officials becomes the paramount question.

The state law permits boxing contests, while it prohibits prize fights, but fails to give a specific definition of either. Such definition heretofore, has been left to the state attorney general.

The no-decision contest between Dempsey and Bill Brennan scheduled for Michigan City was cancelled after Governor McCray threatened prosecution. The threatened action by the state officials caused such a falling off in advance ticket sales that the promoters abandoned their attempt to stage the match.

On the other hand the bout held at Michigan City, Ind., between Tommy Gibbons and Georges Carpentier, was witnessed by a number of state officials without any effort to intervene.

Whether Gov. Jackson, who has succeeded McCray, will take a liberal interpretation of the law, is yet to be determined.

ARTICLES SIGNED

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 30.—(AP)—In the little city of Niles, Michigan, last night, Jack Dempsey signed articles to defend the world's heavy weight championship against Harry Willis, negro challenger in Michigan City, Ind., in September, 1926.

Dempsey, Willis, Manager Paddy Mullins and his advisors, Promoter Fitzsimmons and others motored here, eleven miles north, just over the Indiana state line to Niles, for the signing. The reason for the invasion of Niles was because boxing is recognized as a legalized sport in Michigan and the promoters wanted to avoid all technicalities in the contract that might possibly come up later.

Fitzsimmons announced that $300,000 had been posted as forfeits with the First National Trust Company Bank here. This amount represents $200,000 by the promoters, $50,000 by Willis and $100,000 by Dempsey. From the amount posted Dempsey and Willis each received $25,000 as training expenses, according to Fitzsimmons.

Dempsey left today for Cleveland where he appears in an exhibition bout tonight. Willis and Mullins with Lew Raymond, a New York boxing promoter and Babe Cullens, a promoter of Newark, left for Chicago today and thence for New York.

The match, according to plans, will be staged in the blue sky arena owned by Fitzsimmons at Michigan City. It has a seating capacity of about 30,000 but will be increased to meet demand.

Neither Dempsey nor Willis will receive a guarantee. They will box on a percentage, but their respective percentages were not revealed.

St. Andrews, Scotland.—The Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, golf governing body, rejected a proposal that in amateur and open championships in 1926, only balls of not less than 1.68 inches in diameter and not more than 1.55 ounces shall be played.

Chicago.—Jack Hutchinson, former British open golf champion and holder of other titles, won the Illinois Professional Golfers Association championship with 283 for 72 holes.

SEASON CLOSING UNEVENTFULLY; IS NEAR FINISH

Major Leagues Wind Up Contests This Week End

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Major League teams are closing the season uneventfully.

But two games are on the schedule today and there was only one game yesterday. The contest however, restored the determined Boston Braves to fifth place through the defeat of Brooklyn by Philadelphia. Ten runs in the first four innings of Burleigh Grimes sewed up the game for Fletcher's aggregation 10-4.

Interest tomorrow will turn to the closing struggle of three games between the Browns and Tigers at St. Louis for third place in the American, a peg which Cobb's men held at the close of last season. Detroit must sweep the series to displace Sisler's men who are now two and one half games ahead of the fourth place Tigers.

The schedule also calls for Brooklyn and Boston to terminate the race in a fight for fifth place in the National. After a game at Philadelphia, tomorrow, the Robins will return to Ebbetts Field to meet the Braves on Saturday and Sunday in the final episodes of their scramble for the top rung of the second division.

The champions of both leagues are called from home for their curtain series, although after finishing a four game engagement at Boston starting today, the Washington Senators will make their farewell American League appearance in a single contest with the Athletics at the capital on Sunday.

The Pirates wind up in Cincinnati with a three game series against the Reds starting on Friday.

SPORT BRIEFS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis—James Bottomley, St. Louis Cardinal first baseman, testifying in a court case said he liked to hit home runs, but denied hitting any deliberately.

New York—Harold Osborne, high jumper, and three other Illinois A. C. athletes returned to the United States after a European athletic tour that took them through 15 countries.

GRANGE IS READY AND FOLLOWERS OF ILLINI ARE HAPPY

Great "Red" All Set to Show His Stuff in Nebraska Game

Chicago, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The great "Red" Grange of the Illini is in fighting trim for the gridiron opener Saturday with Nebraska.

And so, the worry of followers of Coach Zuppke's prospects showing in some practice games has been not so good, is greatly relieved. "Red" leads the regulars against the reserves in mid-season form, making his famous long runs for scores against Nebraska plays dashed up by the seconds.

There is less jubilation elsewhere in the Western Conference. Ray Baer, star sophomore is lost to Michigan for its opener with the Michigan Aggies Saturday although the return of Sid Dewey, regular guard last year, partly off-sets this. Northwestern, grooming for South Dakota, may be minus Ralph (Moon) Baker, backfield star, and no guards and tackles are so far determined upon.

Indiana Lacks Material

Indiana is handicapped by lack of material. Coach Ingram has the smallest squad in the conference, but from it he hopes to weld an agile, smooth running machine. Remaining workouts until Friday will determine the starters against State Normal.

The Hawkeyes are banking in Kutch, triple threat ace, as their mainstay in the game with Arkansas. He is showing up well but weak spots remain in the line.

Captain Hermosen, Gladders, Herk-obrad, Taube, Wilcox and Norton are the potential backfield of Purdue in the season's start against Wabash. Injuries to linemen complicate formation of the forward wall.

A. A. Stagg, Chicago's "old man" of the midway, is not well pleased with the Maroon offense. It is not making much headway against defense formations led by Captain Henderson, with the exception of Timmie Moore, plunging looks best and who may bear the brunt of the battering against Kentucky.

Notre Dame Working Hard

Notre Dame, having settled much argument and doubt by its showing against Baylor is content to try out new plays, drill signals and run punts instead of scrimmage. But Rockne has some heavy work on tap for his proteges before the Lombard game this week end.

Joe Karow, promising Ohio State half-back, is out with an injury received when he was tackled by his brother Marty, as he was returning a punt. The hurt may keep him from the Ohio Wesleyan game.

Only two backs, Burrell and Nydahl are certain of positions in the Minnesota line against North Dakota Saturday. The rest of the starters depend on their showings in practice during the remainder of the week.

Earl Wilke, center, injured a week ago, is back at Wisconsin. With his reappearance in moleskins, Lloyd Larson, substitute center, is again holding his regular berth at halfback.

Columbus, O.—Alleen Guy, three year-old daughter of Guy Axworthy broke two world's records in winning the American Horse Breeders' Futurity of the Grand Circuit card.

New York—Dempsey and Willis sign and Niles, Mich., for 10 round no decision bout at Michigan City, Ind., next September. Tex Rickard is aroused but undecided whether to sue.

Rochelle—Tuesday evening at 9:15 o'clock, Mrs. Arthur M. Peck, formerly of Rochelle, but now of Chicago teacher and lecturer of "The Life Way Fellowship," will broadcast from station W. M. A. Q. Chicago, introducing "The Life Way Plan."

Mrs. Peck's message is to all interested in right living and will sound a new note in thinking, eating, breathing and exercising to live.

Declaring that the present laws as enforced are an insurance policy for the criminal, L. D. Spaulding of Princeton, former sheriff of Bureau County, gave a highly interesting address before the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce at their first noon day luncheon, Thursday.

Explaining that the duties of the sheriff's office was increasing due to the prevalence of paved roads which make the city yegg to operate in the rural communities and to the Volstead act, Mr. Spaulding pleaded for the business men to support their officers. Statistics show that there is a murder committed every hour of the day and night in the United States and in one city in this country there are more murders than in all of England.

The speaker gave as his opinion as the cause of crime spread: First, the home, next important, the law, the lawyers and the judge and third, politics.

A very enthusiastic and worth while Presbyterian group meeting consisting of the churches of Holcomb, Kings, Rochelle, Paw Paw and Waterman was held in the Presbyterian church here Wednesday. At the afternoon session the ladies debated the question, "Resolved, that $10,000 could be spent to better advantage on national missions than foreign missions." Mrs. H. O. Downer and Miss Mary Lyon represented Rochelle and a committee composed of Mrs. S. S. Langdon, Mrs. Craighead and Dr. Cleveland awarded the decision to the negative side 2 to 1.

At 6:30 o'clock a cafeteria supper was held in the church parlors. The singing program consisted of anthems, soloists, choruses, piano, organ, and a Paw Paw young people; pageant, "The Making of the Sign," Rochelle young people; readings, Mrs. Jacobs, and Ridge; awarding of banners, Mrs. Craighead; report of young people work Miss Menz, Aurora; address by Dr. Cleveland, head of the church extension work in the synod.

Banners were awarded to Holcomb on the condition of their church and the pro-rata attendance; to Rochelle on young people present and church posters.

Bohumir Kryl and his famous band will play at the high school auditorium here Wednesday, September 30th. An afternoon and an evening concert will be given for the benefit of the Boy Scouts. The concerts are sponsored by the Rochelle Chamber of Commerce.

Charles Unger, chairman of the organization committee of the Blackhawk Council of the Boy Scouts, reports that the committee has made the appointment of the troupe committee men for two troupes which will be started in Rochelle. The men appointed to represent the troupe are: Supt. Lissack, E. T. Berscheid and Ben Bérre for one troupe, and C. A. Anderson, William Hayes and John Woodruff for the other. Scoutmasters and assistants, the most important men of the organization, will be named at an early date. Membership is confined to boys over twelve years of age.

Floyd J. Tilton, Chairman of the Third District, has made the appointment of Frank Barker, E. T. Berscheid, Theodore Hagg, F. J. King and C. A. Anderson finance committee.

Rodgers Refuses to Discuss Air Problems

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Commander John Rodgers, hero of the disastrous trans-Pacific airplane flight, paused in Chicago today en route to Washington to appear before the President's aircraft board.

Hale and hearty, Commander Rodgers denied that he ever felt any ill-effects from nesting nine days in the airplane PN-9-1, while the world virtually lost hope of rescuing him and his four companions and expressed readiness again to essay the air crossing. He disclaimed any ideas for a revolution in control of the nation's aerial fighters.

"Even if I knew the answer, I would consider it improper for me to make any public statement at this time and under the circumstances," he said. "I am prepared only to answer questions of fact."

Commander Rodgers was accompanied by his aide, Lt. L. W. Curtin of Beardstown, Ill., Lt. B. J. Connell, pilot of the PN-9-1, and Lt. Allen Snoddy, commander of the PN-9-3. They were luncheon guests of the Boardmen's Club with the commander introduced by Charles G. Dawes, the vice president, before continuing their trip to Washington this afternoon.

Assault of Editor Held in Peoria Prison

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 29.—(AP)—"Bunker" Ryan, Peoria, arrested in a roadhouse near Pekin after he had attacked the editor of a Burlington, Iowa newspaper, was lodged in the Peoria county jail yesterday by U. S. Deputy Marshal Ted Selmin, after Ryan's bondsmen had surrendered him.

Ryan's case is a peculiar one, according to federal officials. He was arraigned and held in Pekin for the Burlington attack, and will be held in jail here pending extradition from this state. Although the alleged assault took place several weeks ago, no extradition has as yet been secured.

MCKINLEY IS CHAIRMAN

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois today was chosen by the council of the Inter Parliamentary Union as president of the conference opening in Washington Thursday. His selection must be approved by the full conference membership after the session opens in Washington.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Behold also the ships, which though they be so great and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm, whithersoever the governor listeth.—James 3:4.

"The skill, not strength, that governeth a ship.—Italian proverb."

The Key to Success

Success depends primarily on a healthy liver and stomach. You can not think straight if these organs are not working properly. May's Wonderful Remedy is usually successful in such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. At all druggists.—Adv.

Stop Itching Scalp

Rub Parlan Sage on your head and you won't have to scratch the dandruff off. Stops itching scalp instantly; makes hair grow and keeps it luxuriant, soft, fluffy and beautiful. The best hair tonic and scalp treatment. Rowlands Pharmacy, Dixon and Rockville, and add druggists sell it.—Adv.

Best Blonde

Miss Lakoska, wealthy Russian, lost her property during the Bolshevik revolution and fled the country. She landed in Paris, became one of the features of the Folies Bergere, and is said to be the most beautiful blonde in the French capital.

Dr. Cummings' Health Column

Surgeon General, United States Public Health Service
The human body is the most complex, the most wonderful structure with which man is acquainted, and yet how little the average person, even the average educated person, knows about himself. There are certain persons who seize upon a few grains of truth and magnify them until they make people believe that nothing else is important.

One person, for example, proposes to save the country's health by breathing exercises, another by chewing every bite of beefsteak fifty-seven times; one, by eating no meat and another, by taking a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Good habits in eating have a lot to do with health and efficiency and perhaps even with disposition, not to say, happiness. Next to colds and diseases of the respiratory tract, people usually suffer more from digestive troubles than from almost any other ailment.

Good eating habits require that you take into account not only how to eat, but what to eat, when to eat it, how much you should eat and what you should not eat. Every person should study this subject for himself. Be regular in your eating habits.

Eating at all hours of the day and night is sure to cause trouble. If you suffer from indigestion, skip a meal occasionally and give your stomach a chance to rest, but do not contract the good effect that this has done by overloading your stomach at the next meal.

Do not take violent exercise, or full baths immediately following a full meal.

Many Eat Too Fast and Too Much
Most people eat too fast, and many adults, particularly those of sedentary habits, eat too much.

One's mental attitude has much to do with digestion; anxiety, anger and worry seriously interfere with digestion and nutrition.

The average growing boy and girl need three square meals a day. They should be taught to eat wholesome vegetables and should not be allowed to overindulge in starches and sweets, particularly between meals.

Overweight in adults, particularly after 30, is usually an indication that such an individual is over-eating, certain kinds of food at least, or he may be under-exercising, or he may be doing both.

Every extra pound you carry is just that much more extra strain on heart, liver, kidneys and other internal organs.

Reduce your intake of starches, such as bread, potatoes, beans, peas, bananas, also your fats, such as butter, cream, fat meats and chocolate.

You should also limit your sweets, particularly pastries and candy.

Take systematic daily physical exercise, out of doors if possible, and do not over-sleep.

To Gain Weight Eat These Foods
If you are under weight, and have no organic disease, then you will most likely gradually gain weight by increasing your consumption of butter, sugar, cream, chocolate, bread, potatoes, fats and milk.

Get plenty of sleep and try to get rid of your worries, if you have any.

One of the best appetizers is a brisk, out-door walk, filling the lungs with good fresh air and this exercise is suitable for both sexes and for all ages and for fat people and for lean people.

Coffee, tea and cocoa, while apparently not harmful to the majority of grown people should be used in moderation.

No discussion of food is complete without a reference to vitamins. In addition to protein food, such as meat, eggs and fish, needed for repairing the body, and the carbohydrates such as bread, potatoes and cereals, and sugars and fats for fuel and energy, the body requires a vital substance or substances which we call vitamin or vitamins.

They are very necessary for good health.

They are found in many of our foods, such as butter, cream, lettuce, celery, yeast, cabbage, peas and tomatoes; also in certain fruits and berries, such as oranges, lemons, nuts, strawberries, and many others that could be named.

The function of vitamins can be compared to the ignition spark, whose own energy is insignificant but without which the engine cannot run.

Our present knowledge indicates that vitamins are absolutely essential to our nutrition and growth.

Mineral salts, which are very necessary, are generally present in the ordinary, well-balanced diet in sufficient quantity to supply our needs. There are certain exceptions, notably sodium chloride, which we supply in the form of table salt. Sodium bicarbonate is also supplied as baking soda.

Much of the iodine we require is obtained from drinking water. In districts in which the drinking water is deficient in iodine, goiter is very prevalent, causing a great deal of suffering and disfigurement.

In such districts it has been found necessary to supply iodine artificially.

The One who Forgot

By RUBY M. AYRES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

PETER LYSTER, veteran of many battles in the World War, is saved from death when a shell bursts in the British front lines. He recovers quickly from his injuries, but the shock has snapped a thread in his mind. He has lost his memory. Peter has forgotten his engagement to

NAN MARRABY, in London, just before departure for France. Nan is heartbroken because Peter failed to remember even when brought face to face with the girl who has been wearing his ring over her heart ever since the day of their last tryst. Nan has been living with JOAN ENDICOTT, in a small London apartment. But since Joan's husband is returning on leave, and a wife from home has informed Nan that her stepmother has died suddenly, Nan has decided to go back and care for her three young step-brothers. Through Peter's plight, Nan has become acquainted with LIEUT. JOHN ARNOTT, who is arranging to take Peter to the home of his sister, situated just a few miles from Nan's home town. Nan is now aboard a train, homeward bound.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

THE train only stopped once on the journey down into Hertfordshire; Nan went to the window then and looked out. She had said that she hated the country, but it was not really true—nobody could hate the country, especially in the spring.

The guard blew his whistle—the train had begun to move slowly away when the door of Nan's carriage was flung open and a man precipitated himself in.

He tumbled inelegantly on to the seat and looked across at Nan with smiling apology.

"I'm sorry—I nearly missed it." He stopped, and a little frown crossed his brows. "I beg your pardon, but surely—aren't you Miss MARRABY?" The blood flew to Nan's face.

"I am, but . . ."

The man held his hand to her. "My name is Sefton," he said. "You remember me—I met you with Peter Lyster the last night he was in England."

"Indeed." His rather subtle smile brought the color to her face.

"Perhaps I shall be seeing something of him, then," he said, easily. Lyster will be coming down, of course?"

"I don't think so." Nan forced herself to smile.

Her mind leapt ahead into the future, and she knew that this man must hear sooner or later what had happened.

She forced herself to go on: "Perhaps I had better tell you that Mr. Lyster and I are no longer engaged," she said. Her voice was quite steady, but Sefton was shrewd enough to guess that it held underlying pain.

He raised his brows. "Is that so?—I must sympathize—with Lyster," he added courteously.

"I really don't think you need know. She went to see him, of course, and the fellow had the audacity to pretend that he didn't know her."

Nan's cheeks flamed. She forced herself to composure.

"And you are comparing myself and Mr. Lyster to—this melodramatic pair?" she asked lightly.

"Not in the least, I assure you," he answered. "It was the mere fact of your having broken your engagement that recalled the incident to my mind."

Nan kept her eyes fixed on his face.

"And—the girl you spoke of just now?" she asked.

He shrugged his shoulders. "Poor little thing—one cannot but feel sorry for her, but for the man, though he is a friend of mine, it seemed rather a low-down game to play."

"You mean?" she asked, with an effort.

"I mean, to pretend that he had lost his memory and did not know her."

Nan caught her breath. "Lost his memory?" she echoed.

"That is what he pretended, and of course"—Sefton laughed callously—"I need not say that there was another woman in the case all the time."

Nan felt as if her body had grown suddenly cold. She leaned back in the corner with a feeling of dreadful weakness.

"Another woman! But . . . but, oh, how could he?"

Sefton looked at her with a faint smile. "I have learned never to be surprised at anything that happens nowadays," he said, cynically. "He let the window down with a run. 'I think we must be near Little Gadsden now. How are you going to get out to Leavenden?'"

"There will be a trap of some sort," Nan answered. "And if not I shall leave my bag at the station and walk."

"My car will meet me," he told her. "I shall be delighted to drive you out if I may."

Nan wanted to refuse, but she thought it would seem absurd. "It's very kind of you," she said.

The train ran into the station and Sefton opened the door. A liveried man came forward to meet him and took his suitcase. Sefton indicated Nan's modest bag on the rack.

"I am going over to Leavenden first," he said. He and Nan walked out of the station together.

As they bowed along the lanes in Sefton's car she caught little glimpses of yellow primroses in the woods, and now and then the faint, elusive scent of wood violets.

"I need not tell you that there was another woman in the case all the time. . . ." The words haunted her. There was something parallel between her own story and the one of which he had spoken. That other man had just pretended to have lost his memory, whilst Peter . . . she closed her eyes for a moment, and thought of Peter Lyster's worn face as she had seen it only that morning; the tired look in his eyes, the absent-minded indifference way in which he had seemed to regard everything, and she knew it was impossible to doubt him.

"If you will ask your man just to put me down here," Nan said, "I can walk the rest of the way; the house is quite close now."

Sefton spoke to the driver, and the car was stopped.

Nan got out; she grabbed her small suitcase hurriedly. She did not want this man to go up to the house with her; she held out her hand. "Goodbye, and thank you so much. . . ."

"Not 'goodbye,' he answered, quickly. "I hope this is only the first of many such meetings."

She did not know what to answer. "And, Miss MARRABY, if ever you want a friend, I hope you will remember me."

Nan's color deepened. "You are very kind, but—I'm a very independent person. I don't think it's at all likely—thank you, all the same."

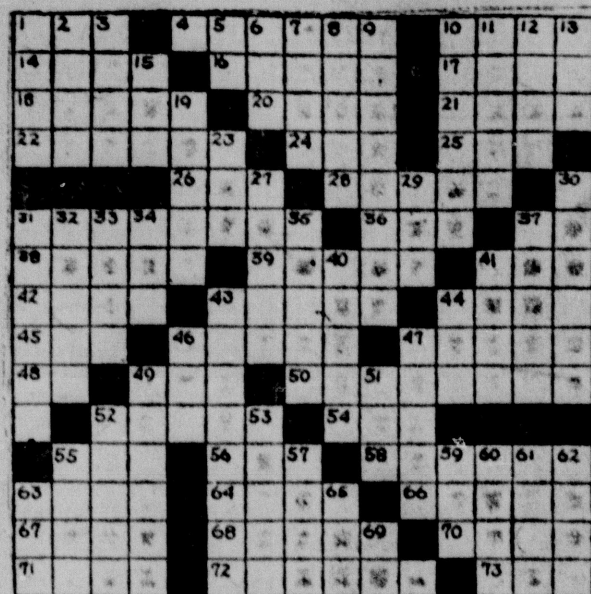

But he would not take the rebuff, he only smiled. "I hope you will remember," he said again.

He stood looking after Nan as she ran down the lane that led up to the house.

Use Coke for Home Heating

Save 25% on Your Coke Bills.
No Dust, Smoke or Gas and Few Ashes

By-product coke is fast revolutionizing the household fuel problem and it is confidently predicted by Government Experts that the day is fast approaching when coke will replace other household fuels both in the furnace and for cooking. Many houses use it in preference to hard coal for their ovens.

As soon as people use coke in a furnace, they never go back to dirty, wasteful hard or soft coal. The Government has issued pamphlets by the thousands in the past ten years urging people to use this clean, economical fuel.

The best of all by-product coke is known by the trade name of "QUICK FIRE COKE" made by the Indiana Coke & Gas Company of Terre Haute, Indiana. They issue an interesting booklet telling about coke and its use and "How to burn it." They send it to any household free on request, and give names of dealers who handle this famous brand of coke.

Insist upon having "QUICK FIRE COKE." If the dealer in your town will not supply you with "QUICK FIRE COKE" take no other, for none other is so good. Write us and we will tell you how to get it and save money on your next coal bill.

posed of often as she wishes. As I came out of my room I met John's mother at the door.

"You're not going out again?" she demanded.

"Yes," I answered shortly.

"But I wanted to talk to you about Hannah and the children, Leslie, do you know that you are out so much that you do not know what that woman is doing with them. Today when I was in the nursery for a short time, Jack struck little Budy."

"Yes, Hannah told me."

"Do you mean to tell me that you didn't mind it?"

"I mean to tell you that I have settled the question entirely."

"I hope you told her, then, that if it happened again she would be discharged," Mrs. Prescott interrupted.

"I did nothing of the kind," I retorted. "Hannah has been with me before little Sydney came, and I would trust her judgment in the care of the children above any one else."

"Then I have nothing more to say."

(Little Marquise, you were relieved of meddling old women in your home by having a lover instead of a husband. There are some mothers-in-law who are angels on earth, but unfortunately John's mother does not belong in that category.)

"Do you really understand," said Mrs. Prescott, Sr., although she had just told me she would say no more on the subject—"Do you really understand," she repeated, "what that woman is doing with your children's characters? You will be sorry some day that you have allowed her to spread dissension between those two boys. You know I always disapprove of bringing a child of unknown parentage into the house, and today when I saw that boy strike my son's child, I was horrified. I had an illusion of what we might expect in the future."

"I probably made my opinions known," she continued, "for I was answered very disrespectfully by Hannah, and as I rose to put the baby—your own baby—off my lap, Jack ran forward and knocked him over again, cutting a great gash in his head. He might have killed him.

"We won't discuss it, Mrs. Prescott," I interrupted coldly, for I knew if I let myself go I would say something I would be sorry for. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)
